

Read about the next great World Championship in Junior Golf....

Maybe you have heard the name, maybe you have seen the logo- but what is Future Champions Golf? Since 2003 Future Champions Golf has set out to be a leading organization in the promotion of golf through junior golf instruction and tournament play for kids and teens. This vision has erupted into one of the World's largest tournament programs and one of the most successful training grounds for players to develop their golf games. So what about the next best World Championship?

Check it out – In 2009 FCG created the “FCG WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP” event and held the inaugural event over President's Weekend in San Diego for the 12 and under divisions, and in Fallbrook for the 13-18 year olds. The event was played the same weekend in both 2009 and 2010 and featured over 250 competitors each year the event was held. Now that the name was set and the staff was able to host such a great event, FCG moved the event to the summer to be played following the prestigious Callaway Junior World Championships and partnered with one of the World's Premier Golf Destinations – PGA West @ La Quinta Resort to become the annual host of this major event. So in 2011 FCG hosted their first World Championship at PGA West and it was a huge hit amongst players and families who attended.

“This was the best event we have been to”

“The courses, the hotel, the special events, the organization – A wonderful week of golf”

“An Over the top – amazing junior golf experience”

“The staff from FCG and PGA West handled everything so smooth, we can't wait for next year”
